 Industrial GlobalFund

We are Energy Pro-USA and the Industrial GlobalFund. We're proud to be headquartered in St. Louis, Missouri. This is our home base, and from here we set out across North America and the rest of the world to design, engineer, capitalize and implement energy optimization programs for the world's largest industrials.

Missouri is known as the “show me” state. As corporate citizens of the state, we bring that essence to every engagement. When our potential industrial partners tell us to show them whether or not additional energy savings exist, we go at risk with our own money, people and technologies to not only quantify the additional savings, but implement improvements and measure the value they create. Missouri’s show me attitude is at the heart of our business model.

EP and the Industrial GlobalFund look forward to a significant role in shaping a positive US energy future. By our nature, wherever we go, Missouri comes along.
